Also happy mothers day I guess

Compose a loving email in which you tell your friends and family how ace Bigpipe is and include the link (maybe even add it to your email signature so it's always there!)

Post your link on social media

Post your link on discussion forums, Facebook pages, Twitter, ISP review sites (alongside your glowing review of Bigpipe of course!) or other online places where other Kiwis hang out and talk about the internet.

Get social IRL

Visit your friends! Harangue your enemies! Take an iPad round to your neighbours along with some fresh baked banana cake and entice them to sign up then and there.

Get weird

Hire a sky-writer to write your link into the sky over your town! Do something remarkable enough to get on the news and then just repeat your unique code over and over! Train bees to spread your unique link far and wide!

Okay, so those last ones might be a bit much, but do make sure people see your link. Remember, the more people that see your link, the more likely it is you'll get someone to sign up. There's no limit to how much credit you can earn – so get referring!
